ADVISORY NOTICE

New Food Inspection Report Is Coming Soon!

The Department of Environmental Health has focused inspection emphasis on risk factors identified by Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) as the leading causes of foodborne illness. In an effort to meet State mandated requirements and provide more information to food facility operators about risk factors and interventions, we have redesigned the inspection report form.

The goals of the new inspection form are:

1. Reduce foodborne illness in San Diego County by minimizing the occurrence of risk factor violations.
2. Reduce handwriting so the report is easier to read and understand.
3. Provide the operator with more information about the inspection.
4. Document items found in compliance, as well as violations observed.

How will these changes affect your food facility?

1. Reduce the risk of foodborne illness in your food facility.
2. Provide more information to you so you can better implement changes.
3. Modify point values so major risk factor violations are weighted more heavily. This has the potential to change your grade.
4. Questions about how food safety practices are conducted will be a common part of the inspection process.

How can you find out more about the new inspection report and how it will be used?

Attend one of the scheduled workshops and training sessions presented by the Department of Environmental Health listed below. For further information contact Dorothy Janse @ (619) 338-2346.
